

DAMAGES MANY PET FALLACIES

Frank W. Hall, of Madison, Calls La Follette Meeting Revolutionary in the Extreme.

HE GOES BACK ON HIS OLD IDOL

Mr. Hall Has a State Wide Reputation, and Has Been an Earnest Supporter of the Governor-- Believes in Cook.

(Special to The Gazette.)
Madison, Wis., May 23.—Frank W. Hall, one of the most prominent attorneys of the state of Wisconsin and a firm believer in the principles and reforms, so-called, of Governor M. La Follette, tonight gave out an interview to the effect that in his opinion, as a matter of law, the convention held in the Fuller Opera house by the republicans who refused to be defeated by the La Follette state central committee, was the legally organized and the only convention with a legal standing. He said: "I have been and am still a great admirer of Governor La Follette, and I believe in the principles which he represents. There is, however, no doubt in my mind of the right of the principle that a state central committee cannot at will control the seating of delegates to a state convention. If the committee could do this there would be no need of a convention and the state central committee could of itself nominate any ticket it desires. A state central committee cannot usurp convention rights. There is no question that a convention is the only judge of the eligibility of its own members. For this reason I consider the Fuller Opera house convention the legally organized body and its nominees the duly authorized republican party representatives."

Mr. Hall's opinion is a thunderbolt to the La Follette camp for he is not only one of leading attorneys of the state but is a thorough La Follette man. He stumped the third congressional district in the La Follette caucus fight against Congressman Babcock, lobbied in the legislature in favor of the La Follette railroad rate commission bill, the primary election bill and other La Follette measures and was at the instance of La Follette elected as a delegate to the national convention by the second Wisconsin district congressional convention.

The opinion of Frank W. Hall, the La Follette-chosen delegate to the republican national convention, to the effect that the La Follette convention last week was illegal because the state central committee assumed the power to change the control of the convention in La Follette's favor by unseating stalwart delegates, has had a bomb shot effect on the followers of the administration, who now, while maintaining a confident attitude, nevertheless realize that the faction which took the advice of Senators Quarles and Spooner and Congressman Babcock in holding a rival convention did not take a leap in the dark. The administration followers admit the probability of the seating in the national convention of the stalwart delegates at large—Senators Spooner and Quarles, Congressman Babcock and Judge Emil Baensch—but maintain that it will be because of the "pull" in national republican politics of the powerful senators and of Congressman Babcock, who is the chairman of the national republican congressional campaign committee.

From sources near the administration it is learned that Mr. Hall was not a dyed-in-the-wool La Follette man, and that he was named as a delegate to the national convention because some honor without great power was desired to be dished out to him in order to hold him in line as a La Follette sympathizer and because of the prestige his name would give the La Follette propaganda. However, Mr. Hall lobbied consistently in the legislature in favor of the La Follette "reform" measures and took the stump in the third district caucus campaign of La Follette against Congressman Babcock, a fight that was a boomerang to the administration. Mr. Hall still says he greatly admires the governor and believes in his principles, but cannot see legal jurisdiction in "stealing" a convention through a state central committee.

GILLESPIE TRIAL STILL CONTINUES

James Gillespie Testifies as to His Actions Before the Crime.

(Special by Scripps-Mellae.)
Rising Sun, Ind., May 23.—James Gillespie was again called to the stand this morning. "I did not fire the shot that killed my sister," he declared in answer to the first question. "I have not the slightest idea who fired the shot; I did not know the literary club was to meet or that Elizabeth was in the parlor; and I did not see parlor lighted." On cross-examination he denied ever knocking his sister down. He said he had employed counsel before he went to court and the grand jury as he understood an effort would be made to indict him for the murder. He admitted he went hunting the day before the murder with the shot-gun used in evidence. Had left gun at Seward's and when he heard the state was going to indict him secured gun.

Mrs. Belle Seward, the last of the four defendants, was called to the stand. He testified as to what happened the night of the murder was similar to that of her brother and Mr. and Mrs. Harbourn. She said she did not fire shot which killed Elizabeth Gillespie, and did not know who did.

POPULATION IN 1910 MAY REACH 89,041 436

Census Commission Makes Estimate of Inhabitants of United States for Next Decade.

Washington, May 24.—In a letter defending the estimates of population recently issued by the census bureau Director North incidentally gives an estimate of the population of the United States under this census to be taken in 1910, placing the figures at 89,041,436. The director says that this indicates a percentage of increase of 17.2, as compared with 20.7 in the decade 1890-1900, but he admits that events are possible in the future development of the country which will put this estimate away.

Speaking of the estimate recently published, Mr. North says that it has been of very great benefit to the country. He says, however, that the estimates by no means form a census nor do they represent local conditions. "Each estimate," he says, "rests upon a hypothesis sufficiently accurate for most statistical purposes—the hypothesis that the annual increase of population since 1900 is one-tenth of the total increase from 1890 to 1900 as established by the census enumerations."

"In only one class of cases had the census deviated from a strict adherence to this hypothesis and endeavored to make allowance for disturbing local factors. These are the cases in which growth has been affected by annexations of new territory, either before or since the census of 1900." Where such annexations have occurred their effect on the population has been carefully calculated after correspondence with the local authorities, city engineers, mayors, assessors, etc.

"In all well-settled communities the hypothesis is found to come remarkably close to the actual fact when tested by similar computation based on the growth in previous census decades. For such communities the estimates can be safely accepted in preference to calculations based on directory canvasses, school canvasses, increase of postoffice business or ballots cast at elections. Experience almost invariably demonstrates that these methods of determining population are unreliable."

He admits that the estimate is likely to prove too small in cities of exceptionally rapid growth.

UNIVERSITY HAS TO TAKE WATER

Plucky Stand of Beloit Makes the Great University Take Back Its Boats.

After weeks of feinting and side-stepping, the Wisconsin university management has decided to accept Beloit's offer to play baseball game in Beloit on next Wednesday, and the game will take place on Keep Field. This will be the event of the year and if the day is pleasant all records for attendance will surely go by the boards as the rivalry between Beloit and Wisconsin was never so pronounced as now. Wisconsin has credit for one victory over the locals and Capt. Slater of Beloit says that his nine will be avenged. Many from here are planning to go to the game.

YELLOW FEVER MAY BE CARRIED BY VESSELS

Report to Philippine Commission Shows That Dread Disease May Follow Opening of Canal.

Washington, May 24.—Dr. Richard P. Strong, director of the biological laboratory at Manila, has a paper in the fourth annual report of the Philippine commission showing how the Panama canal may become a factor in introducing yellow fever into our Eastern possessions and the entire Orient.

He shows that the Hawaiian Islands, Guam and the Philippines will be exposed to the importation of cases of yellow fever or of infected stegomyia of yellow f... m... Pan stegomyia fasciata (the mosquito that carries the fever) unless the disease can be banished from Panama.

The disease often follows the lines of commercial maritime travel and many instances are on record of its introduction by vessels into hitherto uninfected regions.

It does not seem improbable, therefore, says Dr. Strong, that unless extreme precautions are taken against vessels passing from these regions and bound for ports in the far East infected ships and even cases of yellow fever will be conveyed from the above-mentioned cities to Honolulu, or even directly to Guam, Hong Kong and the Philippines Islands.

STATE NOTES

The village of Berryville, north of Kenosha, is alarmed over the discovery of two cases of small pox.

The safe of Waterbury & Lucius store at Solon Springs, was blown open Saturday morning. The building was wrecked, but only $5 in money was secured.

Terrell Thomas, who killed his 8-year-old son and then committed suicide, at Pasadena, Cal., yesterday, was returned in the coroner's inquest into the death of Martin Graff, whose body was fished out of Fox river at Green Bay on Sunday.

Capt. B. J. Cameron and the members of the Kenosha life saving crew rescued three Zionites from the lake at Winthrop Harbor, four miles south of Kenosha, on Sunday night.

The State Board of Control has decided to ask for bids for carrying $100,000 of insurance on the thirty-six boilers in the nine state charitable institutions during the next three years.

The new agricultural building of the state university was formally opened Monday night at a social under the auspices of the "Gratters club," an organization of twelve members of the agricultural class.

WILL SHARE PROFITS WITH ITS EMPLOYEES

American Smelting and Refining Company To Distribute $100,000 Among Its Most Valued Men.

New York, May 24.—The American Smelting and Refining Company, through one of its officers, has announced that within a few days it will divide among its most valued employees something more than $100,000. This is in accordance with the profit sharing plan which the company worked out some time ago.

According to that plan after the earnings of the company exceeded $7,500,000 annually a certain percentage of the earnings were to be divided among the company's managers, superintendent, assistant superintendents, foreman and assistant foremen, chemists, and assayers. The profit sharers are to be selected by the company's executive committee. No one who has not been in the employ of the company for at least a year may participate.

It could not be learned definitely what the company's earnings for its fiscal year were, but it is known that 22.5 per cent of the net earnings above $7,500,000 will be divided among employees. It is said this amount is about $100,000.

DIVORCES TO BE DEBARRED

Presbyterian Church Passes Stringent Measure at Conference in Buffalo.

MINISTERS FORBIDDEN TO OFFICATE

Thorough Discussion of the Subject by the General Conference Brings About a Decided Change in Policy.

Buffalo, May 24.—The discussion on marriage and divorce in the Presbyterian general assembly Monday was lively and resulted in adopting an action "enjoining all ministers under the care of the general assembly to refuse to perform the marriage ceremony in the cases of divorced persons except as such persons have been divorced upon grounds and for causes recognized as scriptural in the standards of the church."

In addition to this declaration the original report of the committee contained further clauses which said:

"Recognizing the comity which should exist between Christian churches, and believing that it would be desirable and tend to the increase of a spirit of Christian unity, we earnestly advise all the ministers under the care and authority of this general assembly to refuse to unite in marriage any person or persons whose marriages such ministers have good reason to believe is forbidden by the laws of the church in which such person or persons seeking to be married may hold membership."

Indorses Interchurch Appeal.

"The appeal and address to the interchurch conference is hereby indorsed by this general assembly and commended to the consideration of all our ministers and congregations. The stated clerk is instructed to issue it in such form and to such extent as may seem desirable and expedient, and it is requested that it be read by pastors from their pulpits on some appropriate occasion."

SLAUGHTERING SOLDIERS BY THE THOUSAND NOW

The Real Results of the Russo-Japan War Are Reaching Europe...Soldiers Dying in Battle.

(Special by Scripps-Mellae.)
St. Petersburg, May 24.—It is reported that Foreign Minister Lamsdorff has received a message from the Russian consul at Chifu saying that the Japanese have made a land attack on Port Arthur, and that in doing so they lost 15,000 men killed or wounded.

According to reports which have reached the Russian headquarters at Liaoyang, and from Chinese sources, and telegraphed here earlier in the day, the Japanese were said to have made a land attack on Port Arthur and have been repulsed with heavy loss.

Report From Kouropatkin.
The following dispatch, dated May 22, from Gen. Kouropatkin, has been received by Emperor Nicholas.

"All is quiet in the direction of the Finchooting mountains. It is reported from Shuyen that on May 21 a Japanese force, consisting altogether of about one regiment of infantry and two regiments of cavalry of the guard and of the line, was observed moving on the broad front from Habalin towards Saitzai-patz."

"During the night of May 20-21 one of our soldiers, returning from Taku-shan to Jonamiro and Khondoukan, discovered a detachment of Japanese infantry bivouacking at Silitou-chindza, ten miles northwest of Taku-shan. The Japanese opened fire on our troops."

"There is no danger in the situation along the shores of the Liaoting peninsula."

To Storm Port Arthur.
It is understood that the Japanese propose rushing matters by storming Port Arthur.

Port Arthur is provided with every defensive method which the ingenuity of man has been able to devise, from the old fashioned moat to the modern barbed wire entanglements. The most complicated kind of pitfalls and mines abound in all possible approaches.

Kuroki's Army Is Stronger.

appropriate occasion.
There was intense excitement during the discussion. The Rev. Dr. Minton and President Patton warmly opposed recognizing the canons of other denominations on the subject and insisted that adultery alone was a ground for divorce. The resolution recognizing the principles of comity towards other churches on the subject thereupon was stricken out on a vote of 262 to 244.

The committee on marriage and divorce was continued and instructed to "cooperate with the representatives of other churches in endeavoring to obtain such ecclesiastical unity, and such state or national legislation as may shield both church and state from existing and impending perils."

Advocates Ritual Service.

The report on a ritual service made by the Rev. Dr. Henry Van Dyke also was a feature of the day. He held that "all Presbyterian churches in the beginning had forms of service, and that 75% of our churches are already using forms of service, and nine-tenths of our ministers ask for a unifying of the different forms of service."

Aware of strong opposition in the assembly to ritualism, Dr. Van Dyke spoke an hour up to the hour of adjournment, when the time was extended, to approve the report and continue the committee to complete its work according to original instructions as given last year.

ROCK COUNTY'S SPURNED HARVEST OF TOADSTOOLS

Hundreds of Tons of Rich, Wholesome Diet Wasted Each Year--A Talk with Halver Skavlem and Horace McElroy.

Wandering through the court house park on one of these bright May mornings, with eyes bent on the soil the close observer will more than likely change upon several dense clusters of toadstools in various stages of development. Those just breaking through the ground will be egg-shaped and white in color with the gills underneath the cap, or pileus, of a pinkish gray color. The caps of the more mature specimens will be of a dirty white or pale brown, and of about the size and general outline of a well developed strawberry inverted, the gills being of a deep brown or black. The mature specimens will be expanded like an umbrella and melting away into lanky drops. Having been taught from childhood's days to regard these and all other growths of the kind as symbols of sudden and painful death the chances are decidedly against our observer noting any of these characteristics. He will probably pass on without further consideration just as thousands of people have been doing for hundreds of years. Yet, should any vagrant wain lead him to make investigations with a particular noting in addition the smooth white hollow stem with no volva or socket at the base, and should he refer his find to the two or three authorities on mycology (that branch of the science of botany which relates to the fungi or mushrooms) in Janesville, he will discover that his specimens are the "little lanky caps," belonging to the genus Cantharellus, and regarded as a most delicious morsel both in raw and cooked state by the epicures.

Local Mycophagists
While there is a small coterie of nature students in this vicinity who are informed to some extent regarding mushrooms, Halver L. Skavlem and Horace McElroy are among the very few who have made a particular study of this kind of plant life and have been courageous enough to test the edibility of numerous specimens never hitherto employed as food. In this locality at least, Mr. Skavlem has harvested and eaten forty different species and has tested nearly sixty. Mr. McElroy has experimented on his own person with at least twenty different species found to be both palatable and nutritious. Though both gather mushrooms for the love of the chase, as they term it, they are mycophagists as well as mycologists in that they seek to make the study productive of practical and economic results.

"The Spurned Harvest"
Seated a few evenings since in Mr. McElroy's cozy den which is literally crowded with stacks of books and trophies from all over the world, the conversation between the two men drifted from an old Danish dagger of jasper which had just been mounted to a talk on mushrooms. Their contention was that the fungus, affording as it does a perfect substitute chemically and gastronomically, for animal food was deserving of more attention than it has hitherto received. The analysis of its substance is almost identical with that of meat, being especially rich in nitrogenous elements while its flavor, aroma, and texture when properly cooked for the table or so closely imitate that of fresh food as to be actually deceptive. In addition these qualities it is a most easily digested kind of food product. It is a matter of some importance therefore that hundreds of tons of rich wholesome diet should annually rot under the trees in Rock County alone with scarcely a hand to gather it.

Prejudice Responsible
There exists no distinction between toadstools and mushrooms, though "toadstool" as a synonym for poisonous, has long been popularly used in this country to designate all species other than the agaricus campestris, or field mushroom, the common fungus of the market and one of the few that can be cultivated. There are a certain few species that contain a deadly poison, and these have made the whole family unpopular since the days of Nero and before. The prejudice still exists in this country, though in Europe where the problem of living is a more serious one, many varieties are distinguished and used by the people.

Some Worthless Tests
Arbitrary and ignorant tradition are responsible for many of the cases of toadstool poisoning that are noted from time to time in the newspapers. Pleasant taste or odor is not a sufficient criterion for safety. The deadly amanita has an inviting odor and pleasant taste when raw, and after being cooked and eaten it gives no token of its fatal resources until six or twelve hours after. Nor is the ready peeling of the skin a sufficient test. The amanita will peel with a degree of accommodation that would at once settle its claims as a "mushroom" in the popular sense. The discoloration of silver is also a worthless test. The amanita in its fresh condition has absolutely no effect on silver. The stem being easily pulled out of the cap applies to several edible species, but equally so to the poisonous. Pink gills turning brown is a marked characteristic of the "mushroom" (the accepted meadow variety) and being a rare trait among the fungus tribe the popular test is certainly a valuable one. The salt test is absolutely useless as a touchstone. The one and only valuable sign by which the deadly amanita can be distinguished is the cup at the base of the stem. If every mushroom having a cup or suggestion of one is avoided the distinctly fatal varieties may be excluded.

Deadly Mushrooms
The favorite haunt of the white gilled deadly amanita is the woods and it is found more often in the spring and summer. An outer envelope or volva encloses the infant specimen, at first completely, then in a ruptured condition, and finally all that remains of it is the cup or socket about the base of the stem and often concealed beneath the ground. Another structural feature is the "veil" or "shroud" which, in the young mushroom, originally connected the edge of the cap or pileus with the stem, and whose gradual rupture necessarily follows the expansion of the cap until a mere frail ring is left about the stem at the original point of contact. This feature, however, is a frequent character of many edible mushrooms.

The Poisonous "Fly"
The poisonous fly mushroom, another of the amanita family, has a brilliant cap of yellow, orange, or even scarlet, with white or grayish raised spots. It grows in the woods, often beneath hemlocks and poplars. It was to this species that the Czar Alexis of Russia owed his death. The lower half of the stem is shaggy and torn and beset with loose, projecting woolly points which resolve themselves below into scales with loose tips curved outward, and so distinctly disposed upon the bulbous base as to leave no marked definition of the continuous ring or opening of a cup or socket. Portions of the ruptured volva adhere firmly to the smooth skin of the cap and appear like scattered drops of mud which have dried upon it. Notwithstanding its fatal character this mushroom is said to be habitually eaten by certain peoples on whom the poison simply acts as an intoxicant. Other species produce nausea and other unpleasant effects but the amanitas appear to be the only ones whose poisons are fatal.

Some of the Species.
The first of the mushrooms to make their appearance in this region, according to the Janesville mycologists, are the little lanky caps. They are not uncommon as early as the 23rd of April. The second to be found are the Morels belonging to an entirely separate genus. In outward appearance this species resembles a small sponge, the pileus being honeycombed with deep depressions. It is of a pale, yellowish brown color and grows under the oak timber, in old orchards and parks, and on the roadside. It is in season from three weeks to a month after the apple trees blossom.

The Odorous Stinkhorn.
The odorous stinkhorn, which is edible in its button stage but in maturity often causes the unwary to hunt for dead cats on their premises, is sometimes mistaken for the Morel. No one gifted with a sense of smell, however, will progress far without discovering this mistake. The field mushroom, the most common of the market which is canned and served in the restaurants, also comes early in the season. About the middle of June the fairy ring champignons spring up in circles or segments of circles in the yards and parks. They are familiar visitors because, according to the nursery legends, they grow where the elves and fairies have danced at midnight. The caps are convex at first, becoming flat, with a mound at the center at the juncture of the stem. The younger specimens are of a reddish buff color which fades to cream color when old. This species is very nutritious and the most delicate stomach can handle it. It is sometimes called the "Scotch bonnet" and "Mountain Mushroom."

The Oyster Mushroom.
The oyster mushroom is found growing the dense clusters on old tree trunks and fallen logs. It makes its appearance early in May, for a short time in June, and again with the coming of the frost in the fall. In structure it is unlike the various species that have been mentioned in that it grows sideways from its position, the stem being usually lateral, that is to say growing on the side of the pileus or cap, and very short. The color of the upper surface is light brown or buff, varying to yellowish ash and the gills are dirty white of various lengths. The taste is agreeable, suggesting the flavor of the cooked egg, and indeed it may be cooked and served in all of the various ways in which the bivalve is employed. A half a bushel of these edible fungi may frequently be cut from a single stump.

Shaggy Caps and Others.
Then there are the egg-shaped shaggy caps, creamy white color and covered with shaggy points. They belong to the same family as the lanky caps and grow on heaps of rubbish and along sidewalks. West Bluff street is one of their favorite haunts. The parrot mushroom makes its appearance in the fields in August. The golden yellow "sulphur mushroom," the honey mushroom which grows in the fall of the year on stumpy ground and is frequently seen in large quantities on the golf links, the pink spotted deer mushroom, the dull reddish-orange colored milk mushrooms banded with stripes of deeper red which extend a bitter milky fluid, the hedgehog with its numerous spines beneath the cap, the saffron yellow coral fungus, the dark meaty-red beefsteak mushroom growing on the stumps of oak stumps--these are a few of the edible species that may be found in this region in the summer and fall.

The Puff Balls.
Among the largest species of the mushroom family are certain varieties of the puff-balls. Some grow as large as pillows and none of them are known to be poisonous. All are edible when gathered at the white stage when the pulp enters like a new made cheese. Those possessing yellow streaks or discolorations are unwholesome.

Some Almost Perennial.
Besides the species that grow in the spring, summer, and fall there is the little velvet stem which makes its home among the willows along the river banks. In the chill weather it shrivels up, but whenever the thaw comes it resumes its fresh and bright appearance in the manner of the resurrection plant. Mr. Skavlem says that he has frequently gathered a mass of these when the thermometer stood fifteen degrees below zero. Thrown in water they resume their life-like appearance in less than fifteen minutes. He has also picked the oyster mushroom out of a snow bank, their characteristics being very similar to those of the velvet stem.

Mysterious Organisms.
Mushrooms are the fruit of a webby, white, mould-like growth, called the mycelium, which threads itself through the dead leaves, earth, and the decaying wood. After a rain or when conditions are otherwise suitable a certain point among this webby tangle beneath the ground becomes quickened into astonishing cell making energy and a small rounded nodule begins to form and continues to develop with great rapidity. The idea, however, that mushrooms grow in a single night is largely a fallacy. The oyster mushroom in June, sometimes reaches its full development in twenty-four hours from the time the "button" first makes its appearance. The same is often true of the lanky cap. Six or ten hours after the twenty-four allotted the latter is apt to be past its prime and unfit for the table. Many of the edible species are infested with insects, a short time after they have reached their full development and for this reason the mushroom hunter chooses the early morning for his quest, which of ten turns out to be a race with the "little brethren of the ground."

Need Botanical Knowledge.
Because no general rule can be laid down for the discrimination of an edible fungus, no one should embark upon this profitable pastime without a certain equipment of botanical knowledge. But this will not be as difficult to attain as it might seem at first thought. "Our Edible Toadstools and Mushrooms" a book by W. Hamilton Gibson, is available at the library and is recommended by both Mr. Skavlem and Mr. McElroy as one of the best popular treatises on the subject. It is a splendidly illustrated with beautiful colored plates and is as fascinating as a novel. It may also be of interest to know that Charles McElroy, the leading authority on mycology in this country has personally tested 200 different species of mushrooms and found them to be edible. The Mycology Club of Milwaukee, a section of the Natural History Society, has listed 400 different species of edible and non-edible fungi growing in this state.

POLITICS STILL BUBBLE AND BOIL

MEETING IS BEING HELD IN MADISON TODAY.

WILL DISCUSS THE METHODS

Chairman Goldin Says That Headquarters Will Go to Milwaukee in a Very Short Time.

There is a possibility that the question of legality of the republican convention at the Opera House will be decided by the Supreme Court before they adjourn for the summer June 5th. This is the general opinion of the men who are leading the fight of the conservative element of the republican party today. Theodore Goldin, the chairman of the republican State Central Committee, went to Madison this morning to meet others of the Cook leaders to discuss ways and means of presenting the claims of the convention before the national committee on credentials and also to arrange for a formal presentation of the matter before the courts.

His Opinion.
Before leaving, Mr. Goldin said: "The meeting today will be purely business. We shall take up all legal phases of the question as reported by Mr. Olin and other of our attorneys and will then decide upon what method to pursue. I do not have any doubt in my mind that we can legally show the stand we have taken was not only legally right, but that the court will sustain us as well as the national committee. By the time we are ready to begin operations in earnest, we will have everything in ship shape and the campaign will be carried on with a rush."

Under His Hat.
When asked where the official headquarters were at present Mr. Goldin said: "Under my hat just now. Later they will be in Milwaukee. How soon we shall be there I do not know but from present indication within a week or so. They are making our quarters ready for us now and when we decide upon all our plans then we will open and be ready for business. I want like to remain in Janesville but Madison or Milwaukee are the proper places for headquarters and I prefer Milwaukee as there are many men who pass through that city whom I wish to see and it is more accessible for men all over the state to come to."

State Central Committee.
It is understood that the two state central committee men from each congressional district will at once begin organization of their district. They will divide the work between them and in conjunction with the county chairman will organize in every county. After the conference today in Madison the committee will be called together for another general conference and the work for June will be mapped out. H. Sheldon and T. S. Nolan will be the two Rock County men upon whom the bulk of the work will fall in this county.

Hall Swings Over.
Madison dispatches this morning announce that Frank W. Hall of Madison, one of the Governor's old time henchmen has deserted his standard and declared the actions of the meeting at the Gymnasium to have been revolutionary. He says: "The methods pursued by the La Follette forces to gain control of the convention at the Gymnasium last Wednesday were revolutionary in character and I feel that I can not support the ticket they have nominated. The principal fault in this matter is of far more importance than the controversy between La Follette and anti-La Follette forces. It reaches to the very foundation of our political scheme. The La Follette contention means, if it means anything, that the state central committee can arrogate to itself the power to nominate candidates on the state ticket. I heard the debate on the matter in the convention Wednesday afternoon and I confess that the opposition to La Follette presented the only real argument made."

A Commitment.
When it is remembered that Mr. Hall has long been one of the mouthpieces of the Governor and that he was recently elected one of the delegates to the national convention from the second district his opinion should have weight and should satisfy the most scrupulous that the convention of republicans in the Opera House was the only thing left for republicans to do.

JANESVILLE BREAD NOT FOR FREEPORT

Local Bakers Have No Desire to Mix in a Strike That Has Already Resulted in Bloody Tragedy.

Janesville bakers have been called upon to furnish bread to the city of Freeport, Illinois, where one of the bitterest strikes in its history is raging between the proprietors of bake-shops and the union bakers. The war culminated Saturday night in a bloody tragedy. A. Nissen, a "scalp" baker was attacked by a crowd of union men and in defending himself fired four shots all of which took effect. John Wuerth, shot in the abdomen, died on his way to the hospital, Ed. Smith, an innocent bystander, was shot in the abdomen and his chances of life were regarded as slight, and two others were seriously wounded. The situation is a critical one and the Janesville bakers have no desire to have anything to do with it. It is unlikely, therefore, that any bread will be shipped out from here in that direction.

CHICAGO UNION GIANTS ARE HEADED THIS WAY

Baseball Aggregation Will Meet Local Talent Here on June 2.

Local baseball fans will have an opportunity on the second of June to witness a game of local and Clinton talent and a Chicago baseball team known as the "Union Giants." The game will be played at the athletic park.

GREAT SEA SCENES ARE REPRODUCED

great sea scenes half built in the United States and now a sunken mass of twisted junk in the harbor of Chemulpo, saluting the Stars and Stripes upon leaving the Delaware breakwater; the race between the Kollme and the Shamrock for America's cup, realistic scenes of tree-felling and the handling of logs in the northern woods, thrilling pictures of the Japanese navy in action, a lordly procession of German battleships from the harbor of Kiel; the "Arrow"--fastest steamship in the world--towing through the waters of New York harbor, the automobile elopement and a host of similar comedy skits, the Pioneer Limited on the St. Paul road--these were a few of the remarkably fine moving pictures that delighted an audience for more than two solid hours at the Myers theatre last evening. The pleasure was heightened by the fact that there were absolutely no flaws in the swift moving negatives, all being perfectly clear and distinct. Harry Willard, expert performer on the piccolo, banjo, mandolin, and violin also proved very pleasing, and furnished the variety in the program which gave the eyes a few moments rest. One of the most remarkable of the pictures was the vivid story of a train robbery which in words would have filled a book. It required twenty minutes to tell it with the pictures. An entirely new series will be exhibited at the dual entertainment tonight and those who enjoy these graphic reproductions of the great events in the world's contemporary history as well as the ingenious comedies with which they are interspersed should not miss the opportunity.

News for the Railroad Men.

The work of beautifying the parks has been in progress for the past around the St. Paul passenger depot week and flowers and shrubbery have been added to the park this season.

The Chicago & Northwestern railroad will run a special train to Madison, June 1, to accommodate the crowd that will attend the annual Modern Woodmen picnic.

Between 20,000 and 25,000 people will be taken to the Rosebud Indian reservation in South Dakota, to be opened for settlement by the government late in June, by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad. Officials of the road are making plans for the excursionists, as it is believed that 50,000 people will try for the 2,400 quarter sections parceled out according to President Roosevelt's proclamation.

Atlantic steamer lines are cutting rates on steerage passengers from Austria, according to information and figures received at railroad ticket offices. The Cunard line is said to have received a government concession at Trieste and Fiume so that it has put rates for immigrants to this country very low.

The Northwestern road will put its St. Paul-Chicago limited trains through a spring housecleaning and restore them to service again about June 1. Turbine engines are to replace the upright type now used in the baggage cars to operate the electric dynamos that light the trains.

The Milwaukee road has issued a circular announcing the opening of the Rosebud reservation in South Dakota. Registration will begin early in July at Yankton and Chamberlain.

The Chicago, Kenosha and Milwaukee Railway company has purchased right of way through the farm of Charles Hanus, adjoining the grounds of the Kenosha County club, and it now has a complete title to a road-bed between Waukegan and Kenosha. Work on the laying of track will begin at once.

CHILDREN'S PARTY HELD YESTERDAY

Miss Helen Beach Celebrated Her Sixth Birthday in a Delightful Manner.

Miss Helen Beach celebrated her sixth birthday yesterday afternoon and the little people of the number of 30 or more were royally entertained by her mother at her home on Wisconsin street.

The guests were invited at four o'clock and there was no delay on account of tardiness. The little Miss was well remembered with presents, as every child brought a parcel, and the entire group insisted on inspecting, as the recipient examined the contents.

One little girl was so overcome in the presence of so large a company that she gave way to her feeling and sought the refuge of home before the day was fairly under way, while a dumpling had liked away for maternal protection early in the season.

At 5:30 refreshments were served and the little company expressed appreciation in a manner which indicated that dyspepsia was the least of their troubles.

The party was a typical children's party, and was a pronounced success. Child life is always an interesting study and it never shows to better advantage than when grouped for an hour of companionship and pleasure. It is as true to nature as the life of spring. Among the guests at Miss Helen's party were:

les, Colton Sayles, Harriet Carl, Norman Carl, Stewart Pond, Lucile Hutchinson, Stanley Tonce, Helen King, Howard Gage, Rufus Jeffris.

MUNYON'S PAW PAW

The Great Natural Remedy for Indigestion and Stomach Troubles CURES NERVOUSNESS Alcoholic Stimulants Lift, but Let You Fall; Paw Paw Lifts and Holds You

Hundreds of People Declare in Favor of Paw Paw

It Soothes the Nerves It Rests the Nerves It Feeds the Nerves It Enables One to Sleep It Is Nature's Own Remedy

I don't believe, says Prof. Munyon, that a better remedy for the blood and liver was ever compounded. I have seen enough of the whole nervous system in a most marvelous way to the use of Paw Paw.

Paw Paw seems to digest everything it touches, hence it makes good, rich blood, which in turn strengthens and vitalizes the whole nervous system.

I want all persons who suffer with dyspepsia or nervous trouble to cart away all other remedies and to give Paw Paw a fair trial. I want every weak and debilitated person to get a bottle of Paw Paw at once and take it according to directions.

I know it will make old folks feel young and weak folks feel strong. I want all persons who feel they are in need of a tonic to drop the use of alcoholic drinks of all kinds and take Paw Paw in its place. People don't crave for stimulants when the stomach and nerves are in a healthy condition. Munyon's Paw Paw gives exhilaration without intoxication.

Munyon's Paw Paw (large bottles), price $1. Paw Paw Laxative Pills 25c. per box. At all druggists.

Coming Attractions.

Otis Skinner did not secure his new play by Jean Richepin without difficulty, and the story of how he first secured it is a story of the struggle for the play. It is a story of the struggle for the play. It is a story of the struggle for the play.

Last year Mr. and Mrs. Skinner, while in Paris, went to the Forest of Fontainebleau to paint the gorgeous green of those historic woods, and in another group of painters chanced upon during a lazy day, Mrs. Skinner discovered the presence of the distinguished French dramatist. The American actor was speedily introduced to the no less popular French author and they were inseparable for a week in the woods that followed. Mr. Skinner spoke with some discouragement over the lack of material suitable for his purposes in the American market and Richepin asked for the privilege of reading him his "Le Chemineau." The play was read; Mr. Skinner thought it one of the finest he had ever heard and at once begged the honor of purchasing American rights. Richepin said he could not dispose of these as that matter was already in the hands of his American agent, Miss Elizabeth Harbury, but that he could assure Mr. Skinner that he might have them, for he (Richepin) would make it his personal business to secure these rights for him. The gentlemen shook hands and Mr. Skinner went off in high glee, only to arrive home and find that a certain distinguished native actor of many eccentricities had tentatively purchased an option from Miss Harbury during his delayed return to this country.

After a period of mourning it occurred to Mr. Skinner to look up his fellow artist and find out what his intentions were in regard to the Richepin play. This visit developed the fact that though this actor much desired to produce the successful French work, he found himself bound by contract to produce another by an English author. Mr. Skinner at once set wheels a moving and by various inspirations applied to both Richepin and Miss Harbury finally persuaded his rival to take back his money and release the much coveted "Le Chemineau." Weeks before this was accomplished and the precious manuscript safely in his hands, Mr. Skinner found that no fewer than four American stars were haunting Miss Harbury's offices in the Empire Theatre Building in New York, with eager designs to have and to hold this self-made play, in which the chief character will be introduced to American audiences as "The Harvester."

In his new play, "A Prince of Tatters," which comes to the Myers Grand Friday, May 27, this week, Al. Wilson, the popular German, dialect comedian, is said to be meeting with great success. Mr. Wilson, who is a graceful and talented actor, is also a mellow baritone singer, and his songs, charming as ballads, are full of romance and pathos. They are features of the performance and each one is a hit. They are soft and sweet and full of sympathy. By a happy utilization of diversified talents he also combines drollery and dignity and makes of the part of "Hugo," the hero of the play, a memorable picture.

try. After a period of mourning it occurred to Mr. Skinner to look up his fellow artist and find out what his intentions were in regard to the Richepin play. This visit developed the fact that though this actor much desired to produce the successful French work, he found himself bound by contract to produce another by an English author. Mr. Skinner at once set wheels a moving and by various inspirations applied to both Richepin and Miss Harbury finally persuaded his rival to take back his money and release the much coveted "Le Chemineau." Weeks before this was accomplished and the precious manuscript safely in his hands, Mr. Skinner found that no fewer than four American stars were haunting Miss Harbury's offices in the Empire Theatre Building in New York, with eager designs to have and to hold this self-made play, in which the chief character will be introduced to American audiences as "The Harvester."

In his new play, "A Prince of Tatters," which comes to the Myers Grand Friday, May 27, this week, Al. Wilson, the popular German, dialect comedian, is said to be meeting with great success. Mr. Wilson, who is a graceful and talented actor, is also a mellow baritone singer, and his songs, charming as ballads, are full of romance and pathos. They are features of the performance and each one is a hit. They are soft and sweet and full of sympathy. By a happy utilization of diversified talents he also combines drollery and dignity and makes of the part of "Hugo," the hero of the play, a memorable picture.

BUYS A $1,200 HOUSE WITH $1

Switchman Closes Unique Transaction With Old Silver Coin.

East St. Louis, Ill., May 24.—John Edwards, a switchman, started the occupants of the real estate office of J. M. Chamberlain, Jr., by throwing down a single silver dollar coin to pay for a $1,200 house he had purchased from the firm and demanding $50 change, stating that the value of the coin was $1,250. After a consultation with a numismatist the deal was closed on Edwards' terms.

Educators in Fight.

Webster City, Iowa, May 24.—County Superintendent of Schools L. N. Gerber is under arrest, charged with attacking City Superintendent L. H. Ford. The trouble started in a dispute over the suspension of a boy.

WHERE THE GAZETTE STANDS

The Gazette will doubtless be criticised by its La Follette consistency for the policy the paper has adopted for the campaign. The time has come when the press of the state, as well as individual members of the party is called upon for a straight declaration either for or against the administration.

The Gazette has consistently and persistently opposed the methods employed by the Governor for the past four years, actuated by no other motive save the welfare of the party. The management has been accused of being disgruntled. This is absolutely false. The paper has too much self-respect to stultify itself for a state office under an administration which it could not endorse.

That this administration was fairly defeated for a third term at Madison last week was evident to the representatives of the paper who were present. The information is based upon facts, clearly demonstrated by personal observation, and the paper will support the ticket nominated at the Opera House convention, until it is decided, if that time ever comes, that it has no legal right to exist.

In rendering this support an effort will be made to treat the opposition fairly. It should be remembered that 80 if not 90 per cent of the republican voters of Rock county belong to the conservative class. They are largely in the majority and the paper voices popular sentiment on the issues involved.

That the party is divided, is sincerely regretted by all thoughtful republicans, but no one attempts to say how it could have been avoided. It is possible to reunite under more conservative leadership the end will justify the means. When the fog clears away, and people take time to think and seriously consider this will be done. Judgment and not prejudice must govern, if the party is to be redeemed.

JUDGE BAENSCH

When Judge Baensch appeared before the republican convention last Thursday, and withdrew his name as a candidate for governor, in the interests of harmony, his friends realized that he cared more for party loyalty than personal ambition.

Of the 567 delegates in the convention more than two thirds of the number were elected to support him, and under normal conditions they would have been with him until his nomination was secured. But the unexpected happened and in the reorganization of the party it became necessary to forget self and personal ambition, and act unitedly in the interests of party welfare.

Judge Baensch held the key to the situation and he was broad enough and manly enough to step aside and make the sacrifice. His motives no man will question, who listened to his impassioned words. They were inspired by loyalty of the highest order. He honored himself by honoring the party and in doing so his name will occupy a conspicuous place in the political history of the state.

TIME FOR SOBER THOUGHT

Events of great importance to the republican party transpired at Madison last week, and while results have been frequently forecast, so far as the break which finally occurred, is concerned, the conditions are so new that neither faction is prepared to adjust itself at a moment's notice.

There are hot headed members in both factions who take occasion to rejoice, but the sober thinking element of the party and they are in the majority on both sides, realize that the party is in peril, and that if it is saved from defeat that passion and prejudice must yield to wisdom, and the exercise of cool judgment and hard common sense.

It is time for sober thought on the part of the individual members of the party, and every man should decide for himself, in the light of all the facts in the case, just what should be his attitude in the present contest.

If he has any doubt in the matter he should take plenty of time to consider and investigate. There is no occasion for hasty action, and the fact should be constantly kept in mind that right decision and right judgment on the part of the party is the only hope of the party.

The history of the strife which ended in final separation, is of such recent date that it is familiar to every republican in the state. However much it may be regretted, it is now history, and every event connected with it is beyond recall. The party has to do with the future and its unwritten history is of vastly more importance than any that has been recorded.

To men who watched with intense interest the rapidly unfolding events at the Gynasium convention last Wednesday, and who after failing in every plan for justice and fair treatment, retired from the scene and organized a republican convention at the opera house, there is no question. Had the republicans of the state have endorsed the action, unless so have endorsed the action, unless so influenced by prejudice as to be completely under its control.

The fact should not be overlooked that the men who represented the conservative element of the party at Madison were sober thinking men, assembled from all parts of the state not in the interests of any one individual, but in the interests of the party. They represented not only the majority of the party, but the business and industrial interests as well. Their action was endorsed by the best legal talent in the state and by the best legislative authority in the land.

The man who permits himself to take an unprejudiced view of the situation, whatever may have been his previous affiliations, is forced to admit that the republican party could never unite under the leadership of Governor La Follette. That being the case he should no longer be a factor as a leader, because the union and life of the party is of supreme importance.

While the Governor has many friends who admire him as a man, many of them will admit that as a leader he is not as safe as Senator Spooner and the men associated with him.

Many things will develop during the summer as to the legal status of the situation, but no court of law will ever succeed in untangling the contending factions. That can only be accomplished by the individual members of the party.

There is only one republican party in the state and if it is to win next November it will be because of loyalty on the part of its members. Defeat had better come to the Governor than to the party.

The Gazette believes that this will be the consensus of opinion when men take time for sober thought. The state has long been in the republican column, and it will continue to hold the enviable reputation enjoyed if individual members of the party will lay aside prejudice, forget the past and work together for success.

I WILL DO THE REST

The New York Sun recently published the following free advertisement for Mr. Bryan's Commemorative. To all Democrats: Whatever else you forget, do not neglect in making up your platform—ward, county, city Assembly, Senate, Judiciary, State and national—to incorporate a clause commanding all Democrats between the ages of 9 and 99 to subscribe for the Commemorative. This is absolutely essential to the cause of Democracy. No true Democrat between the ages mentioned can be safe without the Commemorative. It tells him how to speak, with whom to speak, how to breathe; and if carefully perused is warranted to be a sure cure for coughs and colds and bunions.

The postmaster will tell you that the Editor of the Commemorative did not have a two-cent postage stamp to stick, or a tongue with which to lick it, in the spring of 1896, and that now he has plenty of both. Defy all such malevolent persons, denounce them, and send in your subscription to the Commemorative; price one dollar a year, invariably in advance. Get all your friends to subscribe, and the Editor of the Commemorative will check off a liberal bonus—the more subscriptions the more liberal the check off.

No Democrat from the Cradle of the Ages was ever so great a Democrat as I am, but that is neither here nor there; all that you've got to do is to subscribe for the Commemorative, one dollar a year, invariably in advance, and I will do the rest.

The decision of the republican National Committee, on the right of Wisconsin delegates to a seat in the convention will have much to do in deciding the status of the party in the present contest. In the mean time heated discussion and ill-thoughts will not be profitable to either side. It is a good time to exercise patience and common sense.

Rock county has certainly produced some freaks this spring. Three-legged calves, two-legged horses, tailless calves and now a two-headed dog. Unfortunately all of them died before the side-show splendor could bark their beauties.

The Bubonic plague is said to have broken out in India to be sweeping towards Manila. If it will just stop on its way and take a few Moro villages perhaps Uncle Sam's troops would be just as well pleased to be missed entirely.

The first thing to be done regarding the Panama canal strip now the money is paid and it is ours to send a few hundred doctors down there to kill all the fever microbes.

Some men who took out insurance policies before going to Madison conventions last week must have expected trouble from what they read of the Illinois convention.

Janesville is going ahead and can now be classed as one of the progressive cities of the state.

This political question is costing men lots of money by their having to stop and tell how it all happened.

Circus day is really coming this year and Grandpa's are getting their grandsons ready to be taken—just as an excuse.

It is up to Japan now to tell the truth about these defeats that Russia has claimed in the past few days.

Should divorce courts be abolished there are many women who would not see the fun of being married for keeps.

Kentucky feeds with their mountaineers are not in it with the game warden of Wisconsin.

Lucky thing that warm weather is coming, if the campaign arguments are to be thrashed over this coming summer.

We will soon know which ticket has the right under the republican column of the state ticket.

Uncle Sam will soon have a navy that will not only command the respect of the world but make them respect it.

Mr. Cook seems to bear up well under the criticism of the unjust critics of his actions at Madison.

Illinois does not know who will be the next Governor and may not for some time yet.

Constituents expect their delegates to vote as they direct. Personal opinion does not go.

Evidently that dog ordinance will not be voted upon at the present session of the common council.

The courts will have to decide whether the state central committee is right or wrong.

"The Parting of Ways." The republican convention at Madison.

That Brazilian war seems to have entirely disappeared from view.

No matter boys we are for Roosevelt anyway.

Where is the Balkan war cloud this spring?

PRESS COMMENT

Milwaukee Sentinel: The republican party in Wisconsin now has a republican platform and a republican ticket for the first time in four years.

Racine Journal: While the ice broke up in rivers and harbors this year considerably later than customary in Alaska it is breaking up earlier than usual. But then this is a great country.

Oshkosh Northwestern: The test of loyalty for at least some of the Governor's followers will come when the fat trying process begins in order to secure the funds to run his campaign.

Menasha Record: Maybe the Governor thinks that if he turns the state over to the Democrats they will send him to the senate as a thank offering. Maybe they will and again maybe.

La Crosse Chronicle: At this juncture it is interesting to remember that the question of the state judiciary going into politics was discussed extensively some time since.

Madison Journal: As he has no hair to part in the middle, Congressman Cooper may find it possible to keep the middle of the road between the republicans and the La Follette's.

Chicago Tribune: Secretary Hay, according to our best information, uttered no lament because his bill of $777 for entertainment at St. Louis was exorbitant, and he has authorized no proxies to do it for him. Let the country be calm.

Chicago Record-Herald: Mr. Hanly the present republican candidate for Governor of Indiana, began life as a ditch digger. It has become impossible for many people to be born in log cabins, but every American can take the precaution to start as a ditch digger.

Cincinnati Commercial Tribune: Mr. Anthony Comstock proudly and gladly announces that Chicago no longer presents immorality to her visitors. Was Andy a hunter of 'em on the deadhead racket?

Chicago Chronicle: The school officials who have eliminated Gen-al Funston's exploit of swimming the flag river, where ford there was none, from the Spanish war histories simply because General Funston never swam the flag river are establishing a precedent that menaces the most thrilling incidents of all American history. If historical exploits are to be expunged from school histories simply because they never took place then good-bye to "Paul Revere's Ride," "Barbara Frisch," and "Dee Wood's Charge at San Juan."

Fond du Lac Reporter: In the First district convention Congressman Cooper was re-nominated Friday and in his speech before the convention he tried to steer clear of the rocks on the plea that he hoped harmony would be restored and said that he was interested solely in national politics. Mr. Cooper is well known to be a La Follette sympathizer and his district is strong stalwart territory. He has a large majority at his back, but he cannot afford to antagonize the stalwarts, many of whom appear to be ready to let him do his own fighting at last.

Even Claire Leader: The Irish potato is going to be King in Wisconsin this year. Report from all parts of the country show that the extra planted in that useful excellent the present season will surpass all former efforts in that direction. This is caused, undoubtedly by the present high prices, which is must be admitted are excessive, and which may not be repeated for many years to come. Many farmers who are pinning their faith on a continuation of current rates, may have cause to regret their action. Diversified agriculture has always been the most profitable for the Wisconsin husbandmen.

Painless Dentistry
Dear Mrs. "OPEN TO REASON:" I want to tell you how pleased I am at the results of my consulting Dr. Richards about those troublesome teeth, which you know have bothered me so long. Nobody knows how I have suffered at the hands of my former dentists. But this time I was agreeably surprised to find that HE was really doing my work WITHOUT HURTING ME ONE BIT. And when I came to pay my bill I found his prices very reasonable indeed compared to what I have always had to pay. I want you to wait for your dentistry until you come to Janesville and I will take you up to my Dentist, for I shall have him do all my work in the future.
Good Bye.

Sixty men are now at work laying the rails for the St. Paul's sidetrack to the beet sugar factory site. They have 1,000 feet of track to build and an eighty rod bridge, the completion of which is promised by tomorrow or next day. "We have been assured that the sidetrack will be in readiness to handle our cars by Monday at the latest," said Theodore Hapke Monday morning. "And we are busy in need of them. There are sixteen carloads of structural steel waiting for us in the local yards and over fifty carloads on the way."

The foundations are completed and as soon as the cars can be brought in and unloaded we will start putting up the main building. A derrick and hoisting engine were put in place today for the purpose of lifting the steel from the cars. It will require 200 cars to bring all of the steel and machinery to Janesville.

Start On Cooper Shop.
The bricklayers started work on the cooper shop today and this will be in shape for the preliminary adjusting and testing of the machinery.

TOBACCO DOES NOT THRIVE NOW

Cool Weather Is Keeping Back the Development of the Young Plants.

The cool weather last week has not in any way helped the prospects of the plant beds, though the heavy frost Monday morning has worked but little injury. Growers report that there are plenty of young plants showing upon the beds though in size they are considerably behind those of other years at this date. Under suitable weather conditions the plant beds come forward very rapidly and farmers have not given up hope that plants of the usual size will be ready for transplanting between June 15 and 20 which is considered early enough at this latitude. A few growers say their plants show four or more leaves and seem to be doing fairly well, even during the cold wave when protected by canvas coverings. "We continue to have an abundance of moisture," he said, "and need only warm days to send along an amazing growth of the plants." The delays of a late spring interfering with other farm work is what the tobacco farmers have most to fear at the present time.

While one grower claims that the weather is too cold for the young plants to make any remarkable progress, another claims that his beds never made a better showing and claims that he will be able to plant at the usual time, and with an abundance of first-class plants to spare, in spite of the cold weather that has prevailed of late.

IN THE MILL OF JUSTICE

PARKER PEN CO. VS. C. M. FLECK
CASE DISMISSED.

ACTION AGAINST THE ST. PAUL

Tarrant & Kemmerer Charge Railroad with Careless Switching, Which Injured Horses.

On petition of Attorney Dougherty for the plaintiff, the action of the Parker Pen Co. vs. C. M. Fleck was this morning dismissed from municipal court, there being no cause for action, and the costs taxed to the defendant, who was at one time the premier salesman of the company. It seemed to indicate that there was no balance due the Parker Pen Co. At least that was the contention of the defense. J. J. Cunningham and George Sutherland represented Mr. Fleck.

Action Against St. Paul. An interesting action being tried in court this afternoon is the damage suit of Tarrant & Kemmerer vs. the St. Paul Railroad Co. The plaintiffs seek to recover for injuries to horses shipped over that road, claiming that owing to carelessness in the switching some of their valuable stock was seriously hurt and that one animal had a leg broken and had to be shot.

Marshall Case Adjourned. The assault and battery case against Sterling Marshall, a colored man from Beloit, was again adjourned this morning—this time to May 31.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR ALFRED DEWEY

Wisconsin Lodge No. 14 Conducted Services for Deceased Brother This Afternoon.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock funeral services were conducted over the remains of the late Alfred Dewey at the family residence, 51 Milton avenue, under the auspices of Wisconsin Lodge No. 14, I. O. O. F., Rev. R. C. Denison, pastor of the Congregational church officiating. There was a large attendance of sympathizing friends and relatives of the family.

The floral tributes were of a most beautiful nature. The I. O. O. F., Lodges No. 14 and 51, attended the services in a body. The following members of the order acted as pall bearers: E. B. Helmstret, J. F. Hutchinson, W. H. Grove, and A. F. Watson. The interment was at Oak Hill cemetery.

Mrs. James T. Brown. Funeral services over the remains of the late Mrs. James T. Brown were held this morning from St. Patrick's church at 9:15 o'clock. Rev. E. M. McGlinchy officiating. The interment was at Mt. Olivet cemetery.

The pall bearers were Timothy McKelue, Thomas McKelue, Michael McKelue, Michael Donnelly and A. Kooney.

George Dabson. This afternoon at 2 o'clock the funeral services over the remains of the late George Dabson, who died at the home of his sister, Mrs. Alice Church, 215 North Main street, on Sunday morning were held at the Christian church at Footville. The interment was at the Footville cemetery.

PLANNING TO ERECT A SCHOOL BUILDING

Board of Education Is Considering Sites for a New $10,000 Structure on the West Side.

To relieve the overcrowded condition of the Lincoln school it is proposed that a new school building be erected in Janesville at a cost of $10,000. Members of the school board have been making inquiries into the cost of property on South Jackson street and the site chosen is likely to be on this thoroughfare. The owner of the Donahue lots near the intersection of Galena street offers an option at $2,000, and the two vacant Norris lots at the intersection of Union street are also under consideration. The proposed new building will be a two story, four-room structure built of white brick and equipped with all modern improvements. Pupils attending the old Central school on High street will be accommodated by the location of the building in this part of the city.

TO RENEW LEASE OF STONE QUARRY

Highway Committee Will Recommend That City Secure Extension of Tenure of Barron Property.

The matter of purchasing or leasing a stone quarry to furnish the raw material for the crusher, was discussed by the highway committee at a meeting held last evening. The lease on the Andrew Barron property which has been used for several years has expired. The crusher is located near the property and considerable expense incident to removal would be saved if the lease could be renewed. Some of the aldermen, however, favored the proposition of Thomas Pratt, to sell a portion of his quarry north of the city. In the end it was decided to recommend to the council at the next meeting a renewal of the lease of the Barron property for three or five years.

BASKETS OF BREAD. We might put a basket of fresh bread outside of the store, high up on a barrel and say, help yourselves to a loaf, but we think bread or anything else that is to be eaten is cleaner when kept inside the store.

LOUIS SCHMIDLEY IN A DANGEROUS STATE

Taken Last Evening with Severe Hemorrhages Which Were Not Checked Till Late This Morning.

Louis Schmidley who has charge of King's Pharmacy on West Milwaukee street, was taken with a severe nose-bleed at eleven o'clock last evening and physicians who were promptly called to his home on South Main street were unable to effectively stop the hemorrhages until eleven o'clock this morning. Relatives and friends were thoroughly alarmed over his condition, but at noon today, though greatly weakened by the loss of blood, it was thought that his condition was reassuring and no recurrence of the hemorrhages was to be expected.

SACRED CONCERT.

Return Visit of Rosa d'Erina to St. Mary's Church.

The Grand Organ and Sacred Song Recital given by Mrs. Rosa d'Erina and G. R. Vinton in St. Mary's church last May, gave so much pleasure to all who attended, that Rev. Father Goebel has secured the service of these eminent artists for a second recital to be given in the church on Sunday evening, May 29.

Besides being Ireland's representative songsters Rosa d'Erina is also the only woman concert organist in the world and has arranged to give a series of recitals at the St. Louis Exposition in September. The recital here last year drew an audience which crowded the church to the doors, many being unable to secure admission and it is safe to predict as large an attendance on Sunday next, May 29.

The other witnesses were men from Raucher's, who had acted as waiters at the time of the marriage. One of them testified that immediately on Miss Moore's arrival he had been sent for a candle and a box of matches. The other, that he had carried up to her room a large candelabrum from the drawing room mantle. A pair of curling tongs taken from the dressing table of this room was next produced, together with other articles of toilet use which had been allowed to remain there uncleaned for, though they were of solid silver and of beautiful design.

The next witness was a member of Mr. Jeffrey's own household. Chloe was her name, and her good black face worked dolefully as she admitted that the package of candles which the grocer boy had left on the kitchen table with the rest of the groceries on the morning of that dreadful day when "Miss" killed herself was not to be found when she came to put the things away. She had looked and looked for it, but it was not there.

Further inquiry brought out the fact that but one other member of the household was in the kitchen when these groceries were delivered and that this person gave a great start when the boy shouted out, "The candles there were brought by Mr. Jeffrey" and hurried over to the table and handled the packages, although Chloe did not see her carry any of them away.

"And who was this person?"

"Miss Tuttle."

When the murmur which had hailed this startling turn in the inquiry had subsided the coroner drew a deep breath and, with an uneasy glance at the jury, who, to a man, seemed to wish themselves well out of this job, he dismissed the cook and summoned a fresh witness.

Her name made the people stare.

"Miss Nixon."

Miss Nixon! That was a name well known in Washington; almost as well known as that of Uncle David or even of Mr. Tallman. What could this quiet and characteristic little body have to do with this case of doubtful suicide? A word will explain. She was the person who on the day before had made that loud exclamation when the box containing the ribbon and the pistol had been disclosed to the jury.

As her fussy little figure came forward, possibly because her bonnet was not of this year's style, possibly because her manner was peculiar and as full of oddities as her attire. But they did not laugh long, for the little lady's look was appealing, if not distressed. The fact that she was generally known to possess one of the largest bank accounts in the District made any marked show of disrespect toward her a matter of poor judgment, if not of questionable taste.

The box in the coroner's hand prepared us for what was before us. As he opened it and disclosed again the dainty white bow which, as I have before said, was of rather a fantastic make, the whole roomful of eager spectators craned forward and were startled enough when he asked:

"Did you ever see a bow like this before?"

Her answer came in the faintest of tones.

"Yes; I have one like it, very like it, so like it that yesterday I could not suppress an exclamation on seeing this one."

"Where did you get the one you have? Who fashioned it, I mean, or tied it for you, if that is what I ought to say?"

"It was tied for me by—Miss Tuttle. She is a friend of mine, or was, and a very good one, and one day while watching me struggling with a piece of ribbon which I wanted made into a bow she took it from my hand and tied a knot for which I was very much obliged to her. It was very pretty."

"And like this?"

"Almost exactly, sir."

"Have you that knot with you?"

She had.

"Will you show it to the jury?"

Heaving a sigh which she had much better have suppressed, she opened a

"Did you ever see a bow like this before?"

Her answer came in the faintest of tones.

"Yes; I have one like it, very like it, so like it that yesterday I could not suppress an exclamation on seeing this one."

"Where did you get the one you have? Who fashioned it, I mean, or tied it for you, if that is what I ought to say?"

"It was tied for me by—Miss Tuttle. She is a friend of mine, or was, and a very good one, and one day while watching me struggling with a piece of ribbon which I wanted made into a bow she took it from my hand and tied a knot for which I was very much obliged to her. It was very pretty."

"And like this?"

"Almost exactly, sir."

"Have you that knot with you?"

She had.

"Will you show it to the jury?"

Heaving a sigh which she had much better have suppressed, she opened a

YOUR HAT

May Be a Stylish One, But It Makes Trouble.

A man usually buys a hat that's "in style," but the modern hat for men has lots to answer for.

Baldheads are growing more numerous every day. Hats make excellent breeding places for the parasitic germs which sap the life from the roots of the hair.

When your hair begins to fall out and your scalp is full of dandruff it is a sure sign that these countless germs are busily at work.

There is but one way to overcome the trouble and kill the germs that way is to apply Newbro's Herpicide to the scalp—it will kill the germs and healthy hair is sure to result.

A SPINSTER SAYS THAT—
A man and a strange umbrella very often go without saying.

The bachelor leads a single life, but the married man is often led.

I haven't much confidence in a man whose dog refuses to follow him.

All men are equal the day they are born and the day they are buried.

When a man starts out to paint the village he never uses water colors.

Anyway, no woman can lace herself as tight as a man can drink himself.

Some men grumble because they can't find anything to grumble about.

The self-admiration of some men proves that there is no accounting for tastes.

The man who is unable to work and smoke at the same time invariably smokes.

Some men are of no more consequence than a thermometer on a pleasant day.

An ecotist is a man who thinks the world thinks as much of him as he thinks of himself.

What some men know would fill a book—and what they don't know would fill a library.

Only a small portion of the world really loves a lover. The rest of it considers him a chump.

If the average man could live his life over again, it's doughnuts to fudge he would make a bigger fool of himself than ever.

SAYS THE OWL.

Divorce pulls the feathers from the wings of love.

Although macaroni is hollow it is said to be a solid food.

Some men waste a dollar's worth of time trying to save 5 cents.

Some men seem to believe that money was only made to make.

Fortunate is the man who can give a good bank account of himself.

The question of precedence in this country is merely a question of hustle.

If a woman hesitates it must be owing to an impediment in her speech.

Women love men for what they are, and men love women for what they think they are.

A politician thinks he is entitled to as many kinds of opinions as he may need in his business.

Even an amateur organist can play a wedding march that is entirely satisfactory to the girl in the case.

IN REGARD TO LIFE.

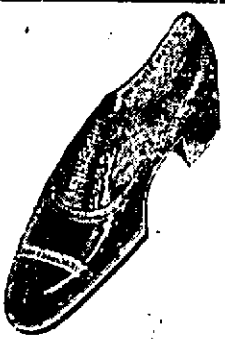

Virtue is so praiseworthy that wicked people practice it from self-interest.

Common sense is the ability to detect values—to know a big thing from a little one. I'd rather possess common sense than to have six degrees from Trinity college, Oxford.

Life is like a roll of costly material passing swiftly through our hands, and we must embroider our pattern on it as it goes. We cannot wait to pick up a false stitch or pause long before we set another.

Punching Bag Not New.

An ancient vase in a Roman museum representing Homer's heroes of the Trojan war, shows one of the young fellows as busy with a "punching bag" hung at the limb of a tree.

Women's Oxfords

For Dress or the Street. We are showing the most beautiful effects in high grade Foot Fashions at such excitingly low prices that to buy elsewhere without first giving us a look were inviting sure disappointment. Special Curtain Sale

TODAY AND TOMORROW.

On these days only we are holding an important sale of Curtains. Why is it important? Simply because Southern Wisconsin's Greatest Stock of Lace and Drapery Curtains is on sale at Special Prices.

It is hard to describe such a stock so that people can form a right appreciation of its magnitude. The best things in Curtains are gathered here, bought from America's leading makers and many imported novelties direct from manufacturers' agents in New York.

THE BIG STORE gets there with the goods, while other concerns hereabouts do a good deal of blustering, but when it comes to a show down or show up there are many things missing. When reading the large claims made by many merchants about the size of their stock, too many people wink the other eye. They know too well where the largest assortments are shown. Make your plans to attend this sale tomorrow.

Curtains are marked on the same basis as they were in previous sales.
